CITY NOW HAS $61,820 CASH

WATER DEPT. SHOWS MONTHLY BALANCE OF $34,942.57.

FEW FIRES AND FINES

June Quiet for Police and Firefighters—Business Slack at City Scales But Good At Library.

An uneventful routine business session of the city council was held last night at the city hall, the regular monthly meeting, at which time bills and reports were approved.

The balance in the city treasury last night, as reported by Mayor W. O. Garrett, was about the same as it has been for several months, $61,820.58, with the water department, as usual, showing the largest balance, that of $34,942.57.

This department also held up the amount of the receipts, which in this fund totaled $2,719.64. Total city collections were $4,206.12. The amounts in the other funds were:

Street fund, $3,658.41; library, $2,241.06; general, $15,860.68; first water bond principal and interest, $1,104.89; street workers guarantee, $351; street lighting, $2,134.91; second water bond principal and interest, $1,527.06.

There were only two fires during the month, one proving to be a false alarm. The payroll for the members of the fire department for June was $24.50. The fire truck was called out early the morning of June 21 and again the same evening, according to the report of Claud Stults, fire chief.

Mr. Stults, who also is weighmaster, recorded he received $11.55 from the city scales and $2.25 for use of the city wash rack.

There were only three cases in police court where fines were assessed, all three coming before Judge Joseph H. Saylor, before he left on his trip to the Pacific coast. Two were arrested for speeding and one for drunkenness, the fines assessed amounting to $15 and costs totaling $17.95.

Miss Grace Langan, librarian, reported the Maryville Free Public Library loaned 1,366 books and magazines during June. Reader cards issued, which were sixty-five and books loaned, showed an increase over the previous month due to the greater number of students attending the State Teachers College, who are constant patrons of the city library.

In the loan department there were 394 juvenile books loaned out, 322 of them being fiction. Seven hundred and fifty-five books of fiction, listed as "general" were loaned out of a total of 860 adult books taken out. The average of books loaned was fifty-three a day and collections totaled $20.47.

Eleven hundred and thirty-six persons used the reading rooms during the month, 587 in the periodical room, 110 in the children's room, 368 took advantage of the reference room and there were seventy-one Sunday readers. The council adjourned until 7:30 p. m., July 6 for the purpose of opening bids on a sidewalk.

ROAD BOARD FOR COUNTY

COMMISSION OF FOUR TO BE NAMED BY COUNTY COURT.

TO BE NAMED TUESDAY

County Commission Is Made Possible Under New Law Which Goes Into Effect Tomorrow.

Nodaway County will have a highway commission, which will have power to locate, construct and maintain, subject to the approval of the state highway commission, a system of county highways, not exceeding in aggregate 100 miles.

The commission will be appointed by the county court at its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday, Presiding Judge E. T. Bailey said today. Judge Bailey said he had been approached by several delegations, which he did not name, asking that their representative be given consideration for appointment to the commission.

The county court has power to appoint this commission, under a new law passed by the general assembly, that goes into effect tomorrow.

When asked if the court could get men who would serve the Judge said he has had enough applicants to create four commissions.

The commissions, which can be created in any county in the state, must be composed of four members, who shall serve without compensation.

One member of the commission will be appointed to serve one year, one member for two years, one member for three years, and one member for four years. Upon expiration of the term of each commissioner his successor shall be appointed for a term of four years. The law specifies that not more than two of the commissioners shall be appointed from the same county court district and not more than two shall be affiliated with the same political party.

Judge Bailey said he had not looked into the law sufficiently to give a personal opinion as to its merits, or demerits. However, the Judge said, "we are going to try it out."

The law provides that the commission in designating roads, shall select the "most practical route in the several centers of population in the county, in such a manner as to afford a connection with such of said centers as are not located on state highways."

The court also attempted to get right-of-way deeds for Highway No. 18, through Burlington Junction and west during this session. The right-of-way deeds, were received today by the circuit clerk. They call for the same route as originally surveyed.

Judge Bailey has been in charge of the W. W. Randall bridge crew, which is erecting a 150 foot bridge over the Platte river one and a half miles west of Conception. He has taken charge of the work since Mr. Randall suffered a strained ligament in one of his legs about a week ago.

Judge Bailey said that the steel foundation had been completed.

McMillen, who was recently appointed acting postmaster at Pickering, was not an applicant. Mrs. Lunte is now a clerk in the Pickering office, and was formerly a school teacher.

SAY THRESHER IMPRACTICAL

BLUEGRASS BUYERS WOULD LIKE TO SEE ONE HERE, HOWEVER.

PRICES TO BE LOW?

Seed Produced in Nodaway County of Exceptional Quality, Kentucky and Kansas Representatives Say.

The proposed blue grass threshing outfit for Maryville and locality was looked on with disfavor this morning by representatives of several large seed houses. Four buyers were in Maryville yesterday and today, and two of them, one from Kentucky and one from Atchison, Kan., gave reasons why a threshing outfit would not be practical here.

"In the first place," W. B. Talbert, president of the Kentucky Blue Grass Seed Co., of Lexington, said, "there is an initial investment of about $50,000."

"Yes, and the outfit would operate at the best but two or two and a half months out of the year," added H. W. Stepanek, the Atchison man who represented the Mangeldorf Seed Co. "Two mills would have to be built, and initial cost, overhead, insurance, and the like would make it quite a business venture."

In addition to this, the men pointed out that the new concern has to face strong competition.

"A big buyer would be more likely to pay such a concern as Mangeldorf's $16 per hundred than to pay a new concern $15.25," Mr. Talbert said.

"But, just the same, we'd like to see a threshing outfit here," Mr. Stepanek laughed. "Then we wouldn't have to gamble on what we buy. We now have to take a chance on getting more seed than chaff, while we'd know just what we were getting if the blue grass were threshed."

All of the buyers here today were merely looking at seed, as they put it. They are waiting for the market to take form before they do much buying. The market should be one of low prices this year, they opined.

"You'll likely see more blue grass sold for 75 cents or under this year than for more than 75 cents," Mr. Stepanek said. The annual consumption is placed at around a million bushels, and there are now about that many bushels of carry-over from last year.

Mr. Talbert said that last year's crop was greater than any since the bumper year in 1912. Kentucky produced 1,400,000 bushels last year. This year the government report says the output from that state will be about 550,000 bushels.

"But there is more blue grass striped in Kansas, Nebraska, and Iowa this year than ever in the past," Mr. Stepanek interrupted. It's a big year for this locality."

When asked about the quality of Nodaway County seed, both men said it was exceptionally good. To the question of whether Kentucky grows better seed than any other locality, Mr. Stepanek said:

"It's all Kentucky blue grass, simply because they started stripping it down there first, but the seed from Kentucky now is no better than that from Missouri or Kansas."

Gillam Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gillam will entertain over the Fourth the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Z. Palmer of Kansas City, her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Cave, also of Kansas City, and her aunt, Mrs. John Grinter of Independence. The visitors are expected tonight or tomorrow morning.

AGREEMENT ON FUTURE TAXES

G. O. P. LEADERS FORM CAMPAIGN WHILE VISITING COOLIDGE.

CUT CORPORATION TAX

Independent Democrats, With Strangle Hold on Next Senate, May Wreck Prospects If They Choose.

Rapid City, S. Dak., July 2.—Republican leaders who have been coming out to see President Coolidge at his Summer White House at Squaw Creek, near here, have worked an administration tax reduction plan which will be offered to Congress when it convenes.

This plan calls for specific reduction in taxes to the amount of 300 million dollars with retention of other rates as now rather than a general reduction all along the line.

It developed today that an attempt would be made to retain the present rate on all incomes of less than $25,000 upon the theory that the small taxpayer had reaped most of the benefit in recent reductions and his rate now is considered to be a rock-bottom normal level.

The changes suggested in this agreement include: Reduction in corporation taxes from 12½ to 10 or 11 per cent.

Elimination of all taxes on theaters and baseball admissions and club dues; diminution of levies upon incomes of more than 25,000 upon the grounds that these had reaped less reduction since the high wartime scale; a slight reduction in taxes on automobiles.

All Republican leaders who were called here, expressed agreement to the general principles of this program. Rep. Timberlake, Republican member of the House ways and means committee which must frame any tax reduction bill, placed his approval upon this plan following a conference with President Coolidge this morning.

Independents and Democrats will have a strange hold upon the next Senate and may be able to wreck this plan if they choose. In the past they have been advocating reduction for the small taxpayers.

Sen. Ford Counsel in School Fund Case

R. I. Bilby and James Strickler Were Bondsmen for St. Joseph School Money.

Senator M. E. Ford returned last night from Liberty, Mo., where he represented R. I. Bilby of Quinman and James E. Strickler of Skidmore in a suit brought by the St. Joseph school district against the bondsmen for school money on deposits in the Security Bank of St. Joseph, which failed several months ago.

Judge Ralph Hughes, before whom the case was tried, decided the bondsmen must reimburse the St. Joseph school district for $40,500. The formal order will be made July 11. It is said an appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

There are twelve defendants in the case who signed the bond to indemnify the school district against any loss, but only four of these, upon whom the burden will fall, made a fight against paying. These four are R. I. Bilby, James E. Strickler, Frank Frogg and W. A. Boyer.

It is said that Bilby holds a contract with the bank, made before it failed May 12, 1926, to the effect that the bank is to reimburse him for any loss he sustains as a result of signing the bank's bond to the school district.

After the school district's evidence was completed late Thursday the defendants presented no evidence. They rested their case on a second demurrer, in which they contended that the school district's evidence was not sufficient to make a case, and that points of law prevented a judgment.

Shoots Sweetheart Then Kills Himself

Cape Girardeau, July 2.—Jealousy was blamed by friends here today for the slaying of Miss Elizabeth Jacobson by Charles Wilson, taxi driver and subsequent suicide by Wilson. Wilson called Miss Jacobson from her home last night and fired three shots. As she fell dead he turned the gun on himself and fired once. Both died instantly.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ankrum and daughter, Walvalla, of Atchison, Kan., are spending the week end here with relatives.

Flier Prepares for Trans-Pacific Hop

Barking Sands, July 2.—The proposed take-off of the trans-Pacific flight by Richard Grace today, was postponed until daybreak Sunday. The heat became so intense that one of the tires on his monoplane was punctured in an early attempt at a take off so the aviator and his advisors decided a start today inadvisable.

Barking Sands, Isle of Kauai, July 2.—Richard Grace, Southern California flier, who has been waiting for favorable weather for a week, appeared on the flying field before daybreak this morning to make preparation to take off on his intended non-stop trans-Pacific flight.

BYRD, ACOSTA TO TAKE REST

ATLANTIC FLIERS ORDERED TO BED BY PHYSICIANS.

BOTH SUFFER SHOCKS

To Be Given X-Ray Examinations for Broken Bones—Paris Gives Aviators Huge Ovation.

Paris, July 2.—At the height of a triumphal trip and with the cheers of the Paris crowd still ringing in their ears Commander Richard E. Byrd and Bert Acosta, pilot of the monoplane "America" which spanned the Atlantic with four passengers, were ordered to bed over the week-end late this afternoon. Byrd and Acosta followed the advice of their personal physician, Commander Wm. Bainbridge of the U. S. naval reserve and went to the American Hospital to be examined thoroughly and have x-rays taken for any possible broken bones.

Dr. Edmund Gross, who examined them, found both suffering from severe shocks and ordered them to bed immediately to remain over Sunday.

ONE MISSING BETHANY MEN WRITES HOME

Baz Johnson Says He Is at Earlsboro, Okla.—Judge Burgin Probably in Central America.

Bethany, Mo., July 2.—Although four men have been missing for several weeks, only one of them has been heard from. Baz Johnson, one of two carpenters who left Bethany several months ago to work in Oklahoma, has written, his mother, Mrs. Charles Johnson of Martinsville, Mo., that he is at Earlsboro, Okla. His letter did not mention Andy Rupe, who went with him to Oklahoma and who has not been heard from for about three months.

Judge Henry N. Burgin is probably in Honduras, Central America, according to the opinion of his son, George Burgin, who is in the United States Veterans hospital at Fort Lyon, Colo., and who has been visiting his mother here. Judge Burgin has been missing since the night of April 29. The funds of several estates of which he was administrator have been found to be short, according to records at the courthouse here.

Clifford Hix, former prosecuting attorney, who has been missing from his home since May 6, has not been heard from, although two Bethany men who were recently in Kansas City asserted they were positive they saw him in an automobile. Some of the relatives still believe he was murdered.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

200 Marines to Go to China Monday

Two Contingents of U. S. Forces Being Sent to Trouble Zone in Orient—Additional Air Forces May Be Sent.

San Diego, Cal., July 2.—Two hundred marines were being mobilized at the marine base here today for immediate transportation to the trouble zone in China.

The first contingent of one hundred men will leave San Diego Monday for Los Angeles to board a liner for Shanghai the same day. The second contingent will leave for the orient on July 18.

It was learned unofficially today that the sending of additional air forces to China is being contemplated. Two squadrons of seven planes each are now on duty in the far east.

PARACHUTE FAILS HIM

Lindbergh in Goodwill Flight Into Canada—Accident Won't Alter Tour Plans.

Ottawa, July 2.—Thad Johnson, pilot of an army airplane from Selfridge, as a part of an escort of planes to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, crashed at the airfield here today and was killed. He died on his way to the Ottawa General Hospital. Lindbergh had started to leave the field when Johnson crashed. He returned to the fallen plane and spoke words of regret but said that original plans for the tour would be carried out.

Johnson jumped from his plane but the parachute failed to work and he hit the ground in sight of 25,000 spectators. He was taken from the field in an ambulance. All of the other planes landed in safety.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., July 2.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh sailed away today from Selfridge Field with an escort of honor on a mission of friendship to Canada.

Accompanied by twelve army planes Lindbergh left at 8:30 a. m. eastern standard time in his "Spirit of St. Louis", for Ottawa, Canada to deliver a message of amity from President Coolidge to the Canadian people on the occasion of the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the Dominion of Canada.

Chicago, July 2.—Generally fair weather will prevail over the Middle West for the Fourth of July, the Chicago weather bureau announced today. The high temperature, which has caused many deaths and considerable discomfort during the past three days, will be missing the report said. Generally cool temperatures will prevail.

Only in the western portion of the Chicago bureau's district, through the Dakotas, is there a chance for unsettled weather, for the Fourth, the announcement said.

IMPROVED ROADS CHEAPEST.

Although we spend millions annually for improving roads, only about one farm in twelve is located on a hard-surfaced or paved highway. A much larger portion are near enough to paved thoroughfares to make considerable use of them, but even one intervening mile of muddy road often makes the use of farm automobiles impossible.

Good roads used to be classed as luxuries but such is no longer the case.
When the loss of time incurred by rough or muddy unimproved roads is considered, together with the wear and tear on vehicles, paved or hard-surfaced roads are essential and should be built as rapidly as possible. The Department of Agriculture says:

"For the movement of every vehicle
over a road there is a certain cost,
which is, less if the road be improved.
Logically, therefore, the only limit that should be placed on expenditures for road improvement is the amount that can be saved in vehicles by not improving roads than it does to improve them. In other words, it pays for improved roads whether it has them or not,
and it pays less by having them than
by not having them."

A thin waterproof wearing surface is being placed on existing gravel and macadam roads in farming communities with great success and at moderate cost.

England saw its first total eclipse of the sun in two hundred years, Wednesday. Many persons mistook the general eclipse last year for a total eclipse of the British Empire, but it proved to be a false alarm.—St. Louis Star.

What Other Editors Say

IS THERE NO LIMIT?

One marvel of aviation seems to tread upon the other's heel so fast they follow. And yet they do not follow fast enough to keep up with the skyrocketing vision of the airplane builder. Lindbergh has barely had time to think of his future, Chamberlin and Levine are still seeing the sights of Europe, Byrd's plane is on the sands at Vers-sur-Mer, Maitland and Haverberger are resting on the beach at Waikiki; but Anthony Fokker, architect of flying machines,
builder of bigger and better airplanes, is finding new oceans to conquer and planning the craft with which to conquer them.

New York to Paris and Berlin, San Francisco to Honolulu, these are past history to Mr. Fokker. They are facts accomplished. He is now off on a flight from Seattle to Tokyo. He is building an airplane designed to be capable of a sustained flight of 72 hours and five thousand miles.

Where is this thing to stop? Isn't there a limit somewhere to the possibilities or practicabilities of sustained flight in machines heavier than the atmosphere until the globe is completely girdled in one single, uninterrupted journey? The ink is hardly dry on the humorist's pleasantry about a fly from New York to Shanghai before the practical airplane builder is beginning to think of it as an actual possibility.

Gladly there must be some point at which the sign is erected, "Thus far thou go and no farther." But where is it? If it cannot be seen in such things as plane surface, combustion chambers and cooling systems it must lie somewhere on the horizon of human fortitude.

New York to Paris by Airplane had a sound when it was first broached. But it has been done. Nay, it has been stretched into New York to Berlin or nearly there. San Francisco to that group of fly specks in the Pacific known as the Sandwich Islands seemed a mad thing, but they did it. Seattle to Tokyo seems utterly beyond reason, but Fokker tells of it as easily as if any man hitting regularly on all his five senses.

Because one man jumped the broad Atlantic in perfect form and because others have done it with no worse mishap than one of the tumbles of the prince of Wales in taking a hedge, transatlantic flying is being exuberant-ly discussed as a regular means for transporting mail and even passengers.
In spite of the fact that under exceptional conditions and in the hands of exceptional men the feat of crossing the Atlantic in aircraft can be and has been accomplished this too seems utterly preposterous. But who knows?

Who can say with certainty that one day there may not be sufficiently complete and accurate weather reports, sufficiently airworthy ships and sufficiently skillful pilots to maintain a regular and practically uninterrupted overseas service?

What with the startling accomplishments in aviation and the extravagant talk of its leaders the average earth dweller is completely bewildered. We have been both literally and figuratively swept off our feet by this newly developed art and science of aeronautics.—Omaha World-Herald.

SATURDAY NIGHT PARKING.

(Shenandoah Sentinel).

We note that Clarinda, Indiana and several other towns are making a great effort to reduce the Saturday night traffic jam in their business sections by keeping the cars of the town residents out of the jam Saturday night.

The city is in exactly the same situation as the housekeeper who invites a lot of guests some evening and then lets her own children occupy all the seats in the parlor. If guests accept the invitation they sit in the kitchen or on the back porch or stand up.

Now isn't that just what Shenandoah does. The merchants say to the people of the country, "Come in Saturday and trade with us." Then Mr. Merchant drives his car down near his store and parks it where it will be convenient when he gets ready to go home. Mr.
Merchant's wife or daughter concludes she wants to see the crowd milling around Saturday night, so she drives her car down to some convenient point where she can look over the crowd and sit there observing the visitors all the evening. It is not very courteous of course—not the way she would treat guests she had invited to her home.

We do not know as there is any legal way to compel a town resident to leave his car at home Saturday evening. If he can't be shamed into doing it there is probably no way to handle the situation.

Some towns get at it by adopting an anti-parking ordinance and then telling the officers to wear blinders so they cannot see the strangers. If they find a town resident with car parked over five minutes in the business district they order him to move or hale him into court, but if the car is from some other locality they do not seem able to see it,
and the merchants advertise that visitors may park in front of their stores as long as they like. The judge could not okay discrimination of that kind.
It is probably unconstitutional, but if the cops do not bring strangers before him he can not help himself.

A better way is for the Chamber of Commerce which we ought to have to get every resident to agree to leave his car at home Saturday night. Public sentiment is about the strongest kind of law—and when public sentiment demands that the hosts shall not hog the places that the visitors ought to have there will be a lot more room for the guests here Saturday nights.

The Fourth will be celebrated in this county at Hopkins, Barnard, Graham,

Lafe Dawson will orate at Concep-

John McCarty will also speak there.

The wool trade in Maryville is getting to be quite an item since the Woolen Mills were put up here. Wool has come in from Gentry and Worth counties. This shows the advantages of manufactures to any place.

Quitman is making preparations to celebrate the one-hundred and first anniversary of American Independence in appropriate style. We learn that Judge Alderman, Judge Johnston and W. W.
Ramsey will deliver orations on the occasion.

The Executive Committee chosen at a meeting last week to make arrangements for the celebration of Independence day at Maryville, have announced that there will be no celebration at this place for reasons which they assign. The committee stated that last year the neighboring towns postponed their celebrations for a joint observance at Maryville, in consideration that there be no celebration here this year. The members of the committee were A. P. Morehouse, Chairman; C. A. Anthony, W.
W. Ramsey, Ed M. Moss, Arthur Andrews.

John Edwards will speak at Graham
on the Fourth.

We have received the first copy of

will be a first class local paper.

There will be a meeting of the Li-

The St. Joseph Gazette of Tuesday said: "On last Saturday about 10 p.
m. St. Joseph was visited with the most severe and destructive wind, lightning and rain storms ever experienced in eight blocks diagonally through the heart of the city. The courthouse is probably damaged to a larger extent than any other building."

principal oration. Rev. Dibble of Maryville spoke next.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

A campaign for local option will soon begin in Maryville and Nodaway county, as was shown by the meeting of the ministers and laymen of the different churches over the county held Tuesday afternoon. Dr. C. E. Kircher, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Maryville, was elected chairman of the meeting, and Rev. S. E. Hoover of the M. E. Church, South, of Elm-secretary. It was decided to get up petitions in Maryville and the county to present to the city council and county court to call for an election on the question. Judge I. K. Alderman and Attorney W. H. Crawford are retained by the ministers as legal advisers. The election will probably be held in September or October.

The house on the farm of Fin C. Conrad, two miles northwest of Maryville, was nearly unroofed in the storm of last Saturday evening. The barn was pulled out of shape, a fine grove of maples ruined and twenty apple trees torn up. Mr. Conrad's loss is $1,000 or more.

Dr. A. T. Fisher's new residence on

The city council met Monday evening and let the contracts for paving on

Rev. B. J. Baxter, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, will close his work with that church Sunday, and leave the Diplomatic Immunity a Vexing Problem

It's The Underlings Of Foreign Lega-tions That Try To "Get By."
Washington Police Find.
By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, July 2.—Backe in George Washington's time, a negro coachman one day drove the pole of his team into a pedestrian with fatal results. When an attempt was made to arrest him, it was found that he was a servant of the British ambassador and hence entitled to diplomatic immunity. Ever since, the matter of diplomatic immunity has been a problem to the Washington cops.

Theoretically, a diplomat here can get away with murder. Fortunately, few of them try to do so and, practically,
they can't, for the State Department is likely to squawk to their home governments unless they misbehave within certain limits.

Many a cop has cussed roundly when confronted in an aggravating case by the fact that the member of a foreign mission can't be arrested.

Perhaps the majority of the ambassadors, ministers, secretaries and attaches are both gentlemanly and cultured, anxious not to abuse their privilege and ever mindful of the fact that when one is in Washington one must eat Washington pie. But some of them have difficulty in fitting into our laws and customs outside their legations and some of them, according to police officials, seem to act on the theory that they can do as they darn please.

Traffic Offenses.

Traffic offenses, however, provide the principal complaint of the cops.
This may give away a secret of state,

but one is given to understand that Mr.
Kellogg's department has sent to all legations and embassies a selected set of rules of the road with the suggestion that it might help all around if everyone followed them.

The heads of mission are generally tactful enough to keep out of trouble, feeling that any gross breach on their part would react on the prestige of their respective countries. Hence it is more often the under officials or members of their families who collide with the police.

The latest instance of the international warfare between diplomatic folk and cops involved Sarsfield Smiddy, the son of the minister from the Irish Free State, who was undiplomatic in more ways than one. After Sarsfield had been stopped early one morning for speeding across a bridge at 34 miles an hour instead of the permitted speed of 22, he was asked for his driver's permit. He replied that he was a legation attache and had left it at home.

The police then found, they say, that he had never taken out a permit. So the Commissioners of the District of Columbia forwarded a complaint to the State Department about it.

Damages Hard To Collect.

Occasionally one of the big boys gets into a jam, however. The Swedish minister some time ago smashed into a newspaperman's car, damaging it considerably. It appeared that the fault was the minister's, but there was no way for the newspaperman to collect repair costs without suing in Sweden, which was out of the question. The newspaperman says that the minister subsequently offered to pay $100 if he would take the blame, and that the offer was indignantly refused. The State Department had an ear in before the matter blew over, but the newspaperman paid the bill from his own pocket,
as the minister-pleaded personal payment. He replied that he was a lega-

SANITARY SWIMMING POOL

FROM ASYLUM TO NEW TRIAL

Wichita, Kan. July 2—Seven years ago a filted suitor stood outside the main doorway of the Catholic Church here and watched his former sweetheart start up the stairway that led to morning mass.

A few minutes later the girl had been shot and the filted suitor captured.

Now seven years later, Theodore Ossweiler, the filted suitor, will again go on trial for the murder. He has been declared sane and competent for trial after spending the past seven years in the state asylum. It is almost a forgotten page in the criminal history of the city.

The county attorney who filed the charge against Ossweiler is out of office. The judge, before whom he was found insane, is out of office.

Ossweiler's chief attorney, Col. Sam B. Amidon, is dead.

Many of the witnesses, who were standing on the steps of the Cathedral seven years ago and saw the shooting, have moved and their addresses are not known.

The murder of the girl was on August 1, 1920. It was a sweltering hot day. The first part of the services had just started within the church when Miss Carolyn Cunningham approached the outer door.

She saw Ossweiler—a young banker

from a small town adjoining Wichita—and started to speak.

There were two shots and Miss Cunningham dropped. Ossweiler, according to witnesses, attempted to turn the gun on himself but was seized by several men.

The trial was rushed and it took only a few minutes for the jury to decide that Ossweiler was guilty of murder. He was sentenced to 40 years in the penitentiary.

Shortly before he was to start sentence Ossweiler's attorneys made an insanity plea and a sanity jury found the young banker demented. He was ordered to the state hospital at Lansing.

Just a few weeks ago the sanity board of the state hospital, after an investigation, found Ossweiler was again sane and the county attorney of Wichita ordered the man returned here.

Miss Eleanor Stanfield went to Mound City, today to spend the weekend as the guest of Miss Ruth Lawrence.

THEY'RE BITIN' OR SOMEONE HAS AN IMAGINATION

"And the one that got away—"
Fish stories are going the rounds. Some of them are founded on fact and some on indigestion and sleep-mixed. Of course, all of them are good—to tell.

But there are fishers and fisheries by the dozens in this part of the country. Many Maryville men spend more hours than they should following the avocation of Isaac Walton, and many wives have outdone their husbands when the daily catch has been placed on the scales.

The prize catch of the season goes to Mrs. Theodore Robinson. The Robinsons, by the way, are due back today or tomorrow from a three-weeks fishing trip in the Minnesota lakes. Theodore promised to write back if he caught a muskie, but no word has arrived.

About a month and a half ago Mrs. Robinson surprised a company of some dozen persons by catching a 5-pound bass in a lake near Maryville. The head of the prize was on display for several days at the Maryville Drug Co.

And Mrs. Wayland Richards is quite a fisherwoman. Some time ago she pulled in four mud cats in about thirty minutes, fishing off the dam at the power house. Each of the four fish weighed a pound or more.

And Wayland has probably caught more fish than any man in town. It's a daily routine with him.

Glenn McKee landed a channel cat night before last that weighed close to four pounds.

And Cecil Wilson comes home in disgust unless he catches a dozen or more nice ones, while "Little Jim" Robinson caught eight pounds and a half of channels on throw lines two weeks ago tonight.

Harve England catches them by the dozens, U. G. Whiffen handled a rod nicely, and George Ebricht is making a living off what he catches.

There are others—many of them—but a man could tell fish stories all afternoon, and the writer must stop if he gets to the Platte before they quit bit in'.

Do You Know What A Squib Is? Or a Wink Wuen or Snake?

Do you know what a Squib is? Or a Plitter Fountain, or a Wink Wuen, or a Spit Devil? If you don't you had better be finding out right away if you are going to be a well-informed Fourth of July celebrant next Monday. And while you are at it you had better get the "low down" on a Venusian Fountain, a Snake, a Grasshopper, Lady Crackers, Flashcrackers and Pook, or you won't be able to understand or explain how Young America is commemorating Independence day although there will be little doubt in your mind that such celebrating is taking place.

And another thing, you won't find this information in Websters, Encyclopedia Britannica, or the Book of Knowledge. All you have to do is to stop the first youngster on the street and ask him what kind of ammunition he is going to use to let it be known that July Fourth is a grand and glorious day. Then ask him to talk slowly and distinctly and in a "jiffy" he'll give you all the dope in a nutshell.

For he is going to celebrate the Fourth in a little different manner than you used to when you would take a sawed-off piece of lead pipe, nail it on a wooden base, fill it with powder, stick in a string fuse, and have a cannon discharge that would be "heard 'round the world" and make every cat, dog and chicken within gun shot shrink away in fear.

This modern youngster will tell you how your early morning slumbers will be jarred when a Giant Salute or a 3-inch Young America announces to you that the 1927 model of July Fourth is here. He'll tell you all about the latest styles in noise making crackers, laying particular stress on the safety, then he'll elaborate on the newest things in fireworks, the flitters, the fountains, the snakes, and grasshoppers, pinwheels, dipt sticks, the red, green and gold sparklers, the volcanoes of fire, and the three-foot sparklers and Roman candles. And in between times he'll tell you that he is going to send up balloons that may outdo the "Spirit of St. Louis," or the "America."

Advance orders from the Maryville merchants who are selling fireworks and firecrackers, indicate it is going to be a glorious day. Orders have been ranging from 5c to $15. So you had better get informed on what you may expect to see and hear Monday.

This and That

There'll be no more black crepe paper if women's hose get much sheerer. That's the edict or premonition or warning, or whatever you call it, straight from James Carpenter of the Carpenter Paper Co. Black crepe paper is made from worn out black cotton stockings. It formerly was an easy task to secure all of the run-down-at-the-reel hose that one wanted. Many people were glad to get rid of them at no price at all.

And black crepe paper was plentiful. But black cotton hose just aren't any more, so to speak, and black crepe paper almost isn't, as a result.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hanson of Parnell went to St. Joseph to spend the day.

According to C. Roger Boulton, secretary of the Bulldog Club, bulldogs are short-lived because the nose being set too far back in the head, breathing is made difficult.

"By cross-breeding to obtain a brick-shaped head," said Boulton, "we hope to give bulldogs a better life expectancy without sacrificing the present characteristic 'bulldog look.'"

FLAGS HERE FOR FOURTH

D. A. R.'S SELL NEARLY 100 BANNERS.

ARE BEING INSTALLED

Maryville Will Be in Gata Dress Monday; Days For Displaying Flags Listed.

Nearly one hundred flags have been sold in the residential sections of Maryville by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Joseph Jackson, regent of the local chapter, announced today.

The flags are being installed in time for the fourth.

More orders are expected, Mrs. Jackson said. The organization is selling the flags to give Maryville's residential as well as its business section a uniform system of decoration. The city will be uniformly decorated Monday. Eighty-one complete sets have been sold and parts of other sets have been sold making the total sale more than 100, Mrs. Jackson said.

Now that the entire city of Maryville is to be decorated uniformly the citizens of the city should learn rules regarding the display of flags. Among the holidays when the flag should be displayed are: New Year's, Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12; Washington's birthday, February 22; Arbor Day; Mother's day; Memorial Day, May 30; flag day, June 14; Independence Day, July 4; Labor day, first Monday in September; Columbus Discovery day, October 12; Armistice day, November 11; Election day; Thanksgiving day; landing of the Pilgrims, Dec. 21. States vary in their "days" for flag display.

Pinwheel Biscuits

Biscuit dough is useful in many ways other than for making hot bread. It has no equal for making fruit shortcakes, or for chicken shortcake. It can be used for a crust for a meat pie or a fruit cobbler. Sweetened and spiced with raisins added, it is transformed into tea cakes. Pinwheel buns are made by sprinkling the surface of the rolled out dough with sugar, cinnamon nuts, and raisins, and then rolling it up, to be cut across like jelly roll. These pinwheels are sprinkled with more granulated sugar and baked, and are wholesome for lunch or afternoon tea.

Cheese Straws

Cheese straws are made much like pastry. Use as much grated cheese as you have flour in your pastry recipe, season with cayenne pepper, and cut half the cheese into the flour and fat. Roll out the pastry and sprinkle the top with half of the remainder of the cheese and roll again, repeating until all the cheese is used. Roll out finally about a quarter of an inch thick and cut into narrow strips or any desired shape and bake.

When a baked potato is done, work it until the skin is loose, jab a fork into one side and make an opening to let out the steam. Drop in a lump of butter and serve at once.

Cherry Dumplings

Make a drop dumpling with a small amount of sour cream, one-eighth teaspoon of soda, one-fourth teaspoon baking powder, a little lemon flavoring and flour to make the right consistency to drop from a spoon. Have cherry sauce boiling hot, drop dough onto the sauce and continue boiling until done. Serve with very thick cream while hot.—Miss Mayme Heflin

Ravenwood Club is Active in Civic Betterment Movements

By Mrs. S. P. Ross.
The first woman's club in Ravenwood was called the G. A. R. Circle composed of the wives and daughters of the Civil War veterans. It was discontinued on Nov. 21, 1919. A few of these members of the old G. A. R. circle and a number of other ladies met in the Sunday School room of the Methodist Church for the purpose of organizing a woman's club. It was a new organization. The officers of that organization were: president, Mrs. David Crater; vice president, Mrs. C. P. Thompson; secretary, Mrs. John Aldyett; treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Stoneburner. The first meeting of the club was held with Mrs. Maggie Basford. The club was called the Ladies Patriotic Club as it was established during the War. The work was mostly patriotic. The first thing accomplished was the placing of markers on the graves of the veterans of the Civil War in all the cemeteries in Jackson Township. Then when the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion was organized, they took over the work of caring for the soldiers. The Ladies Patriotic Club then changed the name to a name more suitable to its present work. At a meeting with Mrs. Ozias Wright February 16, 1921, the present name, Literary Progressive Club, was adopted and a committee appointed to revise the constitution and by-laws of the club. The officers: president, Mrs. A. B. Crater; 1st vice-president, Mrs. D. M. Bishop; 2nd vice-president, Miss Nellie Sims; treas., Mrs. S. H.

Leary; secretary, Mrs. S. P. Ross. There are now eighteen members. The things that have been accomplished by the club: We originated the P. T. A. in Ravenwood; we donate to the Red Cross; and we donate to the endowment fund for the widows and orphans of World War veterans; we donate to the Nodaway County Tubercular Association; and we were instrumental in securing a park of the right-of-way at the depot and are now maintaining the park, buying shrubbery and paying for the lawn to be mowed. The club defrays the entire expense of the upkeep.

Donations are made to every cause which the club deems worthy. The eighteen members are Mrs. M. L. Bentley, Mrs. D. M. Bishop, Mrs. A. B. Crater, Mrs. David Crater, Mrs. Mary Flynn, Mrs. I. A. Goodson, Mrs. M. Goodson, Mrs. K. N. Harker, Mrs. Anna Honebers, Mrs. S. H. Leary, Mrs. Fred Lyle, Mrs. Cecil Lawson, Mrs. James McKee, Mrs. D. J. Hunterson, Mrs. E. H. Sims, Miss Nellie Sims, Mrs. S. P. Ross, Miss Sarah Swartz.

The charter members of the Ladies Patriotic Club were: Mrs. Maggie Basford, Mrs. W. B. Bishop, Mrs. Henry Bradley, Mrs. M. L. Bentley, Mrs. A. B. Crater, Mrs. W. P. Craig, Mrs. W. Davis, Mrs. Mary Flynn, Mrs. J. D. Hunterson, Mrs. Lou Joy, Mrs. S. H. New and Old Points in Canning Vegetables Issued by University

The College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri cooperating with the U. S. Department of Agriculture has issued some new as well as old pointers on canning.

Here they are:
Most home gardens have been planted by this time of year and many people are enjoying fresh green vegetables from their own back yard plot. If you have planted a garden large enough for more than your immediate needs, you are beginning to think about canning the surplus.

For several years you have been using the cold pack method for canning your vegetables. Most of the time you have been successful but sometimes you have been disappointed to find that they have spoiled. In the meantime, in the attempt to perfect the canning of vegetables, investigators have performed many experiments in the food laboratories in Washington, D. C., and other places. The result is that some changes have been made in the recommendations for canning non-acid vegetables. By non-acid vegetables we mean vegetables other than tomatoes.

For that reason we have gathered together all the points, both new and old, which are now considered necessary for the successful canning of vegetables and are listing them here for your use:

1. Be sure that the vegetable is in good condition; poor, raw vegetables will not make good canned ones.
2. See that the container in which you gather your vegetables is clean.
3. Clean the vegetables thoroughly.
4. Put the vegetables on the stove with the necessary water and bring to a boil. Be sure that the vegetable is heated through thoroughly and is shrunken so it can be easily packed. Then pack in hot, tested jars.
5. N. B. This is called the hot pack method. It has been proved that when the vegetable is hot before packing it will keep better.
6. Use new (this year's) rubbers only.
7. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart of vegetables and enough boiling water to fill jar full.
8. Screw lid tight and loosen slightly, turning back about one-fourth inch. With glass top jar, fasten the first wire only. Fasten the automatic seal jar with the wire clamp.
9. Put the jars in the water bath being sure that the water comes at least one inch above the top of the jars. Begin counting time when water bath is boiling and process the required time.
10. If pressure cooker is used, put enough water in the cooker to come to the top of the rack, put jars in, fasten clamps, leaving pet cock open until steam begins to escape. Then close it, and begin counting time when pressure reaches ten pounds.
11. When processed sufficiently, remove from canner, tighten lids, invert and place in cool place but out of draft.

11. Examine for spoilage from time to time for ten days. Store in a cool, dry, dark place.

A time table which will give the time to process different vegetables will be necessary. You may get this from your county extension agent or by writing to the Agricultural Extension Service, Columbia, Missouri. There have been a number of cases of death from eating poisoned canned vegetables and so the following warning is given: With the exception of tomatoes, when you open a can of vegetables, heat it to boiling and boil for ten minutes before tasting. If there is not enough water in the can, add boiling water. If there are any signs of spoilage, throw the vegetable away without tasting.

Menus for the Family

A Day's Menu.

BREAKFAST—Stewed rhubarb, creamed dried beef on toast, radishes, bran muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked timbale of carrots, toasted bran muffins, stuffed cherry salad, iced cocoa.

DINNER—Vegetable and nut loaf, creamed asparagus on toast, tomato surprise salad, Spanish cream, milk, fruit.

A nut and vegetable loaf takes the place of meat in the dinner menu. The change is particularly welcome during the hot months and may help the housekeeper who is out of reach of the city markets to solve her meat problem.

Vegetable and Nut Loaf.

Four good-sized potatoes, 1½ cups chopped nutmeats, 2 tablespoons butter, ¾ cup milk, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon mixed seasoning herbs, 4 tablespoons bread crumbs.

One kind or several kinds of nuts can be used. Boil potatoes and put through a ricer. Add butter and milk and beat well. Beat eggs until light and add to potato mixture with nuts. Add seasoning and mix thoroughly. Shape into a roll and roll in crumbs. Place on a well buttered baking sheet and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove to a hot platter, garnish with crisp sprigs of parsley and cut in slices to serve.

Care of the Teeth Important; Dr. Jesse Miller Gives Rules

The toothbrush is the road to good health, says the chapter written by Dr. Jesse Miller of this city on "The Teeth and Their Care," to be incorporated in all physiology textbooks used after this year in the schools of Missouri.

"The evil results of tooth decay," Dr. Miller points out, "are not limited to the teeth themselves. Recent studies have shown that the germs which cause the decay of the teeth may also form poisons which will affect the entire body. These poisons are formed in the tissues around the teeth. They may get into the blood and be carried to other parts of the body. Here they may cause many serious diseases such as Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Tuberculosis, Gout, and many others. A neglected tooth or mouth is a gateway through which some of our worst enemies gain entrance."

On the care of the teeth, Dr. Miller gives the following rules:

The Care of the Teeth.

"The enamel is the natural protection of the teeth so it is very important that it not be injured. It is brittle and chips easily so we must be careful not to bite upon hard substances such as metals lest we injure the enamel.

"We should select the food we eat. Hard, coarse foods, such as the crusts of bread, tend to polish the surfaces of the teeth and prevent deposits from forming upon them. The foods which savages eat helps to keep their teeth in good condition. The more vegetables and fruits we eat the better for they help to keep the teeth in good condition.

"The most important aid in keeping the teeth in good condition is the brushing with the tooth brush. It has been said that in an army where the soldiers must be kept in the best of health, the dental toilet should be inspected as thoroughly as the rifles.

"The teeth should be brushed regularly at morning and night at least and it is best to brush them after each meal. At least once a day, preferably at night, a good tooth paste should be used upon the brush. The paste will remove the sticky materials which collect upon the teeth and which are very hard to remove with the brush alone. At other times, use the brush and water.

The Proper Toothbrush

"The tooth brush should not be too large and the bristles should be of medium hardness and so shaped that they will get between the teeth. Both the crowns and sides of the tooth should be brushed. It is much better to brush from the gums toward the cutting edges than sideways across the teeth so the bristles can pass between them. The most effective way is to place the bristles of the brush firmly against the teeth at the gums, forcing the bristles between the teeth. Then give the brush a rotary or scrubbing motion toward the cutting edges of the teeth.

"When the brushing has been completed, water should be taken into the mouth and forced around and between the teeth by the lips, tongue, and cheeks. It is important that the mouth be rinsed so that the remaining food particles can be removed. Even the best of tooth brushes will not always keep the spaces between the teeth clean. Such spaces may be cleaned by passing dental floss in between the teeth.

Dental Care of the Teeth.

"Even with the best of care, hard substances known as Tartar are often deposited upon the teeth, usually at the margin of the gums. Stains are also formed which cannot be removed with the brush alone. These can be removed by the dentist. So at least three times a year they should be cleaned by a dentist. At this time they should be examined for cavities. The small cavities are not painful to fill, and the tooth is not weakened because the decay is soon checked.

"IF WE CAN KEEP OUR TEETH IN GOOD CONDITION UNTIL WE ARE 25 YEARS OF AGE, WE WILL PROBABLY HAVE GOOD TEETH FOR THE REMAINDER OF OUR LIVES."

Women Must Be "Different" Now

"One Must Use One's Pate to Crash A Gate," Hedda Hoyt Declares.

By HEDDA HOYT

(United Press Fashion Editor)

New York, July 2.—It's pretty hard to crash your way through Fashion's gate. Too many women are elbowing you out of standing room on the outer side of the gate and dozens of others are sitting on upholstered seats inside with rain checks in their hands.

It's simple enough to look passable in a crowd, providing the crowd is large enough. But to be one of the few is quite another matter. So many women are well-dressed these days that the poorly-dressed or the conspicuously dressed person is apt to be the one who are pointed out as looking smart.

Looking over a smart audience of a Broadway production last night I saw dozens of beautifully dressed women scattered about me. Only two women in the theatre held the glances of their sex. One, a robust young matron sitting beside an Arrow Collar type of husband, held all feminine eyes because she dared wear her hair in a style which would be unbecoming to most women. Her long taffy-colored hair was as straight as a Christmas candle. It was literally peeled back from her forehead and behind the ears and twisted into a tight fold at the back of the head. Somehow she reminded one of a blond seal. Long pendant earrings of brilliant accentuated the sleekness of the head. Had this woman been a brunette this manner of hair-dressing would have proven uninteresting. One naturally expects blondes to wear frivolous hair-does.

The other woman creating interest wore a huge yellow Spanish shawl em-

CHAUTAUQUA'S FIFTH DAY IS FOR CHILDREN.

A "MUSICAL BANQUET"

Gay Colored Costumes, Music And Fun Will Make Up Entertainment This Year.

Maryville mothers will be interested in the 1927 Junior chautauqua which will be held in connection with the regular chautauqua here, August 11, 12, 13, 15, 16 and 17 this year.

This is Maryville's seventh year of Junior Town, and the supervisors are planning many surprises for the juniors, and spending a great deal of time and money to make them the best of profitable good times ever given them.

Junior Town is under the direction of capable educators and boy and girl workers of the United States.

The fifth day of chautauqua really is children's day and the chautauqua managers had their 40,000 boys and girls particularly in mind when they planned the afternoon program, but probably parents as well, will want to go when they hear about the "musical Banquet" for who is there, young or old or in between, who does not welcome a bit of real musical food.

There are going to be many interesting characters in beautiful gay colored costumes at the musical feast. Everyone will want to sing and dance and play with them. Those persons in charge say that it is going to be the best pageant yet offered. Something for every taste.

And Junior Town will meet every morning under the big chautauqua tent!

broided in rose tones, a black fringed frock, black slippers with red heels, a black silk felt hat 'a la Carmen' with a red rose on the under brim, and a chin strap. Only the eccentricity of her outfit elevated her above the equally costly-garbed girls about her.

Then too, there was a little blonde person in her teens who had one of the newer haircuts. The hair was but two inches long over the entire head and curled upwards into ringlets with bangs over the forehead. A bronze and orchid changeable taffeta period gown with tiny puffed sleeves, off-shoulder neckline and long skirt gave her a Dresden doll effect.

Elsewhere in the crowd were straight-lined gowns, bloused gowns, marcelled bobs, etc. All unnoticed! That's why we say, "One must use one's pate to crash a gate."

Apple butter may be made with or without cider and is a good means of using up windfall and imperfect apples that must be cooked to be saved. The U. S. Department of Agriculture will tell you how to make it.

Skidmore Camp Fire Girls Plan Extensive Camping Trip; Will Present Play July 8

By Martha Pfeiffer, Scribe.

The Chesckchamay Camp, the Skidmore division of the Camp Fire Girls, was organized in June 1925, with seventeen members, those being: Evelyn Logan, Lucy Twaddell, Anna Lee Money, Ruth Money, Georgia Mae Ashbrook, Helena Goslee, Mary Appleman, Rebecca Botkin, Lois Schiller, Miriam Caywood, Mary Esther Loucks, Katherine Gray, Virginia Morgan, Eleanor Montgomery, Margaret Dale, Hoblitzell, Louise Hoblitzell and Martha Pfeiffer, Mrs. Vela McClain, Guardian, and Mrs. W. H. Hoblitzell, Sponsor.

The first year was spent in acquiring the Woodgatherer's rank. The girls met regularly every week and three council fires were held.

During the summer of the first year the girls camped three days near the A. J. Wells home. Here they had their first experience in outdoor cooking and outdoor recreation such as games and swimming.

During the school months each girl made a reed basket and wove a rug. By the opening of the second summer season the requirements for woodgatherers were completed and work was begun for attaining the second rank, that of Firemaker.

Each girl made her own ceremonial gown and headband, decorating each with designs representing her desire, her name and her symbol.

During the summer of 1926 the Camp Fire Girls went for a week's outing at Clearmont camping in the Tourist's park and attending the swimming pool. Here Eleanor Montgomery passed a test and became a Junior lifesaver. Some of the other girls received beginner buttons for swimming. Every day was begun with setting-up exercises. After this visit was ended the girls had several picnics and went to the swimming pool.

It was necessary to raise funds to finance the trip to Clearmont. For this reason the play "The Return of Rosalie" a camp fire play was presented. The girls also had labor day, a doughnut sale, ice cream social and cake sale. Every year the girls have gone farther away from home. This year they are planning on a trip to Smith Lake, forty-five miles northeast of Omaha. To finance this trip they have had a doughnut sale and labor day. The play to be given this year is entitled, "Down Petticoat Lane" and will be presented on the Mark Loucks lawn the evening of July 8.

In every way the girls have tried to live up to the ideals of:

Seek Beauty
Give Service
Pursue Knowledge
Be Trustworthy
Hold on to Health
Glorify Work
Be Happy.

and they feel that they have become a better and brighter group for having belonged to the organization known as the Camp Fire Girls of America.

"Down Petticoat Lane", the play which the girls will present to aid in defraying expenses of their 1927 camp was written by Helen Durham.

Those taking part are:

Indian girl, Lois Schiller.
Pawnee girl, Mary Lowrance.

Jungle Breath

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the quiet little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMY POTTIS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limy Pottis, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Vilak refuses to let her go with them, and he and Nunnally continue. At Prentiss' gate, which is fortified with barbed wire, they hear a rustling in the bushes nearby.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

Vilak shrugged his shoulders and returned to his companions.

"Did you learn anything?" Elise asked eagerly.

deep into its muddy shore. "I don't see why I should want his property even if it is mine," she said thoughtfully, as she gazed out over the misty expanse of water. "Why he lives in that wretched spot is utterly beyond me. There's far too much of this water above it. It's bad enough on my fazenda, being threatened every rainy season by the dam at Avilos, but in his house I'd be constantly afraid that one of these lakes would overflow and start trouble. The ground where his house is situated is so extremely low. The lakes probably aren't large enough to do much damage; nevertheless it wouldn't be pleasant if they broke through. I've been in one flood and don't care to be in any more. I repeat that why he lives there is absolutely beyond me."

She was about to speak again when a warning pressure of her cousin's hand checked her.

"I thought I heard a noise," he said softly to her and to the chemist behind. "It's quite possible we are being followed. Come toward me and halt. Keep absolutely motionless."

They obeyed quickly and close to Vilak waited, the girl listening to catch the faintest trembling of the brush. Nunnally, glad of the opportunity to rest from his unusual exertions, leaned lightly against the tree under which he stood. Suddenly he gave a sharp ejaculation of pain.

For the first time the old man they had just come. "Well, we got through there without any trouble, after all," she said. "Your ears are playing tricks with you, aren't they, Vilak? You've been smoking too many of those Chinese cigarettes. It's a wonder to me that your nerves haven't completely gone to pieces. I'd hear a great many things that didn't exist if smoked even two of them."

Vilak smiled, and took out his fantastically carved cigarette case. "Perhaps that's a hint that you'd like one now?" She made an indignant gesture of refusal. "You, Nanny?"

The old man rather timidly took out his own modest, mild-flavored package. "Er, thank you very much. But I think . . . er . . . think I'd rather have my own. I will take a . . . er . . . match though."

"You mean to say you've lost those two boxes I gave you this afternoon?" The old man looked at him humbly. "Not lost exactly. Er . . . Not lost. They just slipped down into that lining of my coat again."

"You're hopeless. You're positively hopeless, Nanny," Vilak shook his head. "If Elise is still the good creature she was when she was a child she'll sew up your pockets tomorrow. Here's another box of matches. Don't lose this one."

They lit cigarettes, mounted, and rode toward the town. As they reached the spot where the bridge crossed the river they saw the light of the railroad encampment, and upon Elise's expressing a wish to see it rode nearer. From the top of the embankment they could see the laborers still at work pitching their camp, their black shadowy forms flitting about spectrally in the ruddy light of the torches and the fire.

They were close enough to the encampment to be clearly seen by those below; the handsome, white-limbed chief with whom Vilak had spoken several hours earlier walked over to gaze upon the embankment and ascertain the identity of his visitors. Recognizing Vilak and the chemist, he smiled and waved his hand cheerily. "You ride late tonight, senhors," he called out in his clear, robust voice. "Will you not come down and chat a little?"

"No thanks a lot!" Vilak called in response. "We're on our way to bed."

"Ah, indeed are you most lucky," the engineer answered. "Myself I shall be up all the night before the camp is done. Ah, the life of the engineer is not easy. But at least you will smoke with me a cigarette. It would be most kind. It would pass for me a few moments pleasantly. Too often am I lonely."

He waved a comprehensive hand toward his vicious-faced workmen. "With my villians, helas, there is not much to talk."

"Sorry. We've really got to go," Vilak responded. "Some other night, perhaps." They chatted a moment from the heights, then the three called out a good night and touched spurs to their horses.

"Boa noite, senhorita, senhors," the engineer called out after them. "Have a care of the roads. They are not too safe."

"Charming fellow," said Elise as they turned into the highway leading to her home.

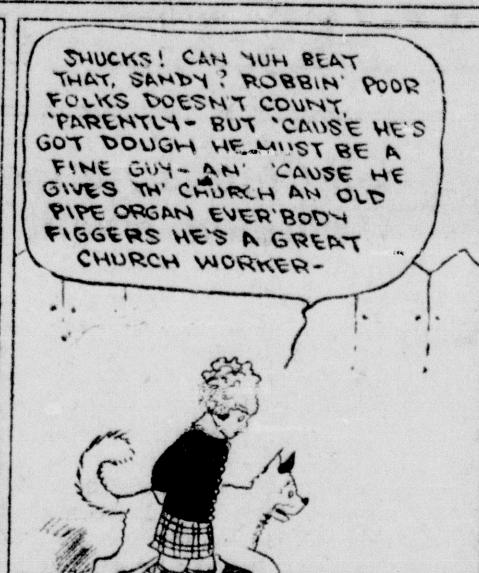

"Delightful," Vilak responded. They rode a dark quarter of a mile without seeing either beast or traveler except a belated ox-cart driving to town, which the cursing Brazilian driver told them had broken down fifteen kilometers up the road and the power of evil only knew when he would get into the city. Then they heard a sound of men's voices in argument and nearing the spot saw the two Italians who had been there earlier in the evening, Pasquale Branza of the patched cheek and enormous Adam's apple and the one-armed Detto Ciccone of the broken teeth.

The Latins stopped arguing immediately on seeing the travelers and swiftly snatching off their hats and bowing unctuously, murmured a salutation. The old man caught a glitter of steel at their belts.

Siberian Exploration Booms This Summer

Moscow, July 2.—Thirty-nine scientific expeditions have set out for Siberia, where animal life, mineral deposits, geological and geographic formations, social habits and languages of the Siberian tribes, and many other aspects of the little-known sections of the Soviet Union are under constant study. This constitutes the greatest outpouring of scientists ever to have penetrated the remote region.

The dog came nearer, then burst through the bushes, a huge black monster with fiery, blazing eyes.

"Perhaps a little. Perhaps too much," he answered.

The moon disappeared behind a cloud. The path became shrouded in misty darkness. They were slowly picking their way toward the gate when they heard a click as of a door being opened in Prentiss' house. A moment later something bounded through the brush toward them.

"He's let the dog out on us," Vilak murmured. "Run to the gate."

The girl took the old man's hand and darted off to the fence. Vilak halted and tranquilly taking a vial and a large handkerchief from his coat, saturated the cloth with the pungent liquid.

The dog came nearer, then burst through the bushes, a huge black monster with fiery blazing eyes. It leaped upon Vilak. He crumpled under the impetus of its massive body. It sprang at his throat but he caught its neck in his strong fingers and while its black body writhed violently and its ugly jaws struggled to reach his flesh, thrust his handkerchief against its moist nose.

In a moment its struggles began to lessen; it gave a convulsive gasp and lay stretched on the ground, breathing heavily. The others came up to look. Vilak brushed the mud off his clothes. "He won't bother anyone else for at least half an hour. I gave him a good dose of chloroform."

The old man looked at the long faigis, white in the rays of Vilak's flashlight. "Er . . . are you sure you haven't killed him?"

"I don't kill unless I have to. Not even a dog."

They crawled through the gate in the fashion they had entered. Vilak took a wax impression of the lock. They crossed the creek and climbed the sharp slope to the lake above. Elise stooped to pull out her boat which had sunk saw his friend lose his coolness. He wheeled violently and spoke in a fever of anxiety of which Nunnally had not believed him capable. "You hurt, Nanny? Quick! What's the matter?"

"Er . . . nothing. Er . . . really ter?"

Nunnally's voice was humble and apologetic. "I'm sorry I cried out. Er . . . sorry. I forgot about the er . . . glove and took it off and stuck my hand on a . . . er thorn."

"Never mind about that. Let me see it!" He seized the old man's withered hand and disregarding any followers who might be stalking through the trees, snapped on his flashlight and under its brilliant rays examined the tiny wound.

He drew a breath of relief, then extinguished the light. "It's all right. I thought it might be something else. But if you value your life, keep on that glove. Let's start walking again."

They proceeded in single file a few hundred feet. Vilak again halted. "I'm fairly certain now we're being followed," he whispered. "You and Elise walk ahead and talk to each other as loudly as you like. The louder the better. Keep talking. Have your pistol ready, Nanny, but don't shoot unless I tell you."

The old man and the girl moved obediently down the path. Vilak crept into the brush and waited, listening intently. But he heard nothing. After a few moments he stepped out and joined the others. "I was certain something was there," he remarked. "It's quite possible my ears tricked me out here in the jungle where there are so many noises. Don't often do it, though."

They reached the tree near the thorn thicket where Elise, like the others, had tied her horse. She looked back at the black hole through which

China His Goal

Lieutenant Herbert L. Kindred of Dallas, Tex., Chicago-to-Dallas air-mail pilot, has entered the Dallas-to-Hongkong race for the $25,000 offered by W. E. Easterwood, Jr., of Dallas. He plans to fly in a special monoplane now under construction, which will be equipped with two Wright Whirlwind motors. Lieutenant Tom Hardin, also of Dallas, is to be his companion.

Those who make resolves to begin saving money and then fail to live up to their resolutions are generally the victims of poor planning. They either try to save more money than they should or they do not plan on saving a certain amount daily, weekly or monthly. Don't try to live beyond your means. There are rightful and necessary demands made upon every individual. If we try to save too much, especially if we are beginners in thrift, we may fail.

The amount to be saved is a matter of adjustment. The man who has never saved money will find that he can save more the second year on the same income than he was able to save the first. This is because, with the development of thrift habits, he not only finds it easier to restrict his extravagances and unessential, but he finds his efficiency increased. He develops short cuts. He learns that, with ingenuity, he can attain the same results often at less cost than when he was not under such self-discipline.

Goethe observed that "enthusiasm is of the greatest value when we are carried away by it." This can be applied to saving money as well as to everything else in life.

Even in thrift there is harm in over-enthusiasm. Plan your savings along lines commensurate with your income and the conditions of life about you.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Murray of St. Joseph will come this evening to spend the Fourth with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Tarpley and Mr. and Mrs. James Murray.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT
By S. W. STRAUS
President American Society for Thrift

There is little or no value in sporadic economy. To save for a while only to squander later when temptation proves too strong, is of no benefit whatever. Those who have succeeded in developing habits of thrift have schooled themselves first of all to save systematically. A certain amount put aside each day, each week or each month will do wonders in stabilizing one's methods of life and stimulating personal progress.

CLOSING GRAIN REVIEW.

Chicago, July 2.—Trade in wheat was light at the opening but eased up on reports of good weather in the wheat belt and the cash market going half a cent higher. Corn went up with the influence of wheat and closed from a cent and five-eighths to two and three-eighths cents higher. The cash market was a half a cent higher. Oats were from one-eighths to five-eighths above yesterday in sympathy with wheat. The cash market was steady.

Provisions proved slightly lower in sympathy with the lower price in hogs and the expected large shipments next week.

PLANES DO A DANCE IN AIR

BRITISH AVIATORS CAVORT TO JAZZ MUSIC BY RADIO.

PAGEANT NEAR LONDON

All New Types of Fighting Machines Are Displayed by Britain's Royal Air Force.

London, July 2.—Airplane squadrons hundreds of feet in the air "dancing" to the music of a jazz band, were the star features of the eighth Royal Air Force pageant held this afternoon at Hudson Aerodrome, seven miles north of London. The music, which was transmitted to the flyers by radio, was made the basis of elaborate evolutions performed to the rhythm of the tune and the words which went with it.

Thus when the band played "Chick, Chick, Chick," and came to the phrase in the words of the song, "I lay my little egg," the squadrons swooped down and began to drop bombs. After this they zoomed again and simultaneously began to "roll" their machines in formation while the band played "Rolling Home." Other evolutions followed to the tunes of "Here we go round the mulberry bush," and "The more we are together," while the "dance" concluded with the squadrons flying past the grandstand and landing in front of their hangars to the tune of "Wont You come home, Bill Bailey?"

Stunt flying by crack pilots of the R. A. F. thrilled a crowd of more than 50,000 people, and great interest was shown by the crowds in the "taxi past" the grandstand when one machine each of all the new types of fighting machines in the air force taxied slowly past the crowds giving everybody a close view of the latest machines. These varied from the tiny 20 horse-power 2-cylinder, tailless "Pterodactyl" to a huge Avro "Ava" bomber equipped with two Rolls-Royce engines of 650 horse-power each and capable of carrying several tons of bombs.

Numerous "dog-fights" between squadrons of single-seater fighters, and mock combats between fleets of fighters and huge bombers aroused great interest, and the rattle of machine guns firing blank cartridges, together with a number of parachute descents from "disabled" airplanes, gave a semblance of war-like reality to the performance.

5,950 LICENSES ISSUED HERE BY JULY 1.

AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

Tags Sold at C. of C. Office for 159 Cars, Thirty-Four of Which Were
New, During Last Month.

Nineteen twenty-seven has been forging ahead of the previous year in the number of automobile licenses issued at the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, a branch distributing office for the state department.

Miss Catherine Tobin, acting secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, reported today that with the ending of June, there were more licenses issued since February 1, 1927, than during the period of February 1 to August 1, 1926. The gross receipts for state licenses on July 1 was $66,848 as compared to $65,293.75 for the five month period in 1926.

For the $66,848 there were 5,950 licenses issued, Miss Tobin said. During the last month licenses were sold for 159 cars, which brought in a revenue of $1,383.

Of the 159 cars, thirty-four of these were new automobiles, the records at the Chamber of Commerce show. However, there was a falling off in the number of licenses issued and the number of new cars for which applications for licenses were made than during the month of May.

In May 266 state licenses were issued here, forty-three of the licenses going on newly manufactured cars.

FIRST REPORT
IN THAT WHEAT
IS BEING CUT

Smith Bros. Near Skidmore Put Binder
In Field.—Says Corn Here Better Than in Atchison.

Charles and Henry Smith, living two miles east of Skidmore, are believed to be the first persons to harvest wheat in Nodaway County this summer. The Smith Brothers, with a tractor and binder, started cutting about a thirty-acre field yesterday. Pearl Taylor, who has a Democrat-Forum and Tribune inter-town route, reported this morning.

The wheat crop was not thick, but the heads are well filled. Three men are following the binder and tractor, shocking the golden waves as they are tied up in bundles.

Speaking of the corn crops on his route, which takes him from Maryville to Wilcox, Burlington Junction, Quitman, Skidmore and Graham, Mr. Taylor said he could see the difference in the corn each day since the hot weather set in. Some fields are up three feet, others only knee high, and many of the fields are ready for cultivation for the last time, or "ready to lay by," as he said.

"The wonderful thing about the fields of corn along my route," Mr. Taylor said, "are that they are all clean. I haven't seen a single weedy corn field on my entire route," which takes him through fifty-seven miles of Nodaway County.

The corn has really "shot up" recently was the comment he made, and there is plenty of moisture, even though the farmers have been "praying for rain." In every plowed field Mr. Taylor noticed, the earth turned up was moist.

He compared the corn crop in Nodaway County to the prospects in Atchison County, saying that in a trip over into Atchison County this week, "I never saw the corn worse. It is way behind the crop in Nodaway."

Mr. Taylor mentioned the condition of the roads which he travels in distributing the daily paper. "They never were better," he said. "There has been a lot of grading done between Burlington Junction and Quitman, and a six mile stretch south of Quitman. The new road has been packed hard, and the route in general is better than I have seen it for many years."

This winter Mr. Taylor was forced to abandon his trip farther than Burlington Junction many times, due to the impassable road conditions. It now takes him three and a half hours to make the trip, including all the stops.

Compensation Law Is Declared a Success

32,000 Industrial Accidents Reported to Commission Since Law Went Into Effect, January 9.

Jefferson City, July 2.—The Missouri Workmen's compensation law is a success, Alroy S. Phillips, chairman of the workmen's compensation commission, declared in an address broadcast over state radio station WOS. "Litigation under the new law is virtually unknown," he declared.

"The promise made at the election when the law was passed by a vote of the people, was that it would eliminate litigation and expenses and give relief to the injured without dispute and delay and this promise is being kept," Phillips asserted.

Since January 9, 1927, when the law went into effect, about 32,000 industrial accidents have been reported to the commission and all of these have been adjusted without delay and with virtually no dispute, the chairman said.

"The law makes it the duty of the injured worker, the employer and the insurance company to agree on the amount of compensation due and also makes it the duty of the commission to help the parties in reaching an agreement and to aid the injured employees, he explained in commenting on the statistics.

COMETS CAN

TWO GAMES ON CARD FOR NEXT TWO DAYS.

PLAY HERE JULY 4TH

Union Star, In Second Place In Northwest Missouri League. Here
On Monday.

With three games won and five lost in the Northwest Missouri baseball league since the season started May 8, the Maryville Comets are preparing for a hard schedule this week-end and the Fourth of July. A double victory over their opponents, Gentry and Union Star, will give the Comets a .500 average, and toward this end the management has arranged for the batteries that include three hurlers.

The Comets go to Gentry tomorrow and will start Buhler, with Orville Hecker, the newest addition as backstop. Lefty Lewis will be in the bullpen all during the game. Coming back to Maryville the Comets will face Union Star, a team that stands second in the league standings.

Lewis, Arrington and Buhler will be on hand, ready to go to the mound. Lefty Lewis is expected to start the Fourth of July game.

The Comets now are being considered a dangerous team. The showing made against the league leader, Stanberry, last Sunday, gave rise to hopes for continued victories and a smooth working combination in the infield seems to be handling all the chances with more accuracy than since the season started.

The game will be called here Monday at 3 p. m., with the reliable old stand-by, Claude Wilson, calling balls and strikes.

MISSOURI HAS
163 NEW LAWS

ACTS OF LAST LEGISLATURE EFFECTIVE AT MIDNIGHT.

LIMIT BANK CAPITAL

Banks Must Now Have Minimum Capital of $15,000.—Buses Now Under Public Service Commission.

Jefferson City, July 2.—Missouri is governed today by 163 additional laws which automatically became effective at midnight last night following their enactment by the last session of the state legislature.

A few of the acts of the last session carried emergency clauses and became effective at the date of approval but the bulk of the legislation became laws today.

One of the most important is the law which places motor bus lines in the hands of the state public service commission for regulation and licensing. Another important one is the changing of the methods of levying the 2c gasoline tax.

Another of the changes is in the state banking code which now provides for a minimum capitalization of banks at $15,000 instead of $10,000.

Many of the new laws are only minor changes in provisions of those statutes now in effect.

Henry Gannan returned yesterday from a few days' business trip to Jefferson City and Chillicothe.

DEFORMED CHILDREN MAY GET FREE TREATMENT.

DR. FRYER EXPLAINS

New Law Provides That County Court May Send Cases to University Hospital in Columbia for Treatment.

Children of Nodaway County who are suffering from a deformity which may be remedied may receive free treatment after July 11, Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health officer, announced this morning. Beginning with that date, free treatment will be given at the University Hospital in Columbia for all children under 15 years of age, whose parents are unable to finance it elsewhere. This is made possible by the Missouri Crippled Children's Law, passed by the Fifty-Fourth General Assembly this year.

Dr. Fryer has received full information concerning the service, and will be glad to consult with parents of children who are suffering with a deformity which may be remedied or cured.

The law makes it possible for any county court to send children to the University Hospital for free treatment. It is necessary for the court to determine, in accordance with the provisions of the law, that the deformity can possibly be remedied by treatment, and that the child is under 15 years of age. The consent of the parents or other persons responsible for the support of the child is required, and it must be shown to the satisfaction of the court that the parents or responsible persons are not able to provide means for the treatment and hospital care of the child.

"Aye, Aye, Sir!"

Vice Admiral Henry Wiley (above), a native of Alabama, has been designated next commander in chief of the United States fleet, to succeed Admiral Charles F. Hughes. Admiral Hughes has held the command for two years, and has been promoted to chief of naval operations at Washington.

child.

When proper action has been taken by the court and the blank form for physicians examination has been submitted to the hospital, the court has authority to appoint an attendant to accompany the child to the hospital. The transportation expenses of both will be paid by the state. The only expense to the county is that of investigating the individual cases.

Dr. Fryer said that there are likely many families in the county who may take advantage of the new law. He spoke highly of the act, and indicated that it will form an avenue for a great deal of good throughout the state.
